Senate Balance of Power

The 2022 general election resulted in Democrats remaining in control of the 100-member Senate, picking up one additional seat in Pennsylvania. Following the election, Senator Kyrsten Sinema of Arizona left the Democratic party to become an independent but has retained her committee assignments alongside Democrats in the chamber giving Democrats a 51-49 seat working majority. Following the death of Sen. Dianne Feinstein, California Governor Gavin Newsome appointed Laphonza Butler to fill the vacancy, maintaining the 51-49 majority for Democrats in the chamber.

House Balance of Power

Republicans have retaken control of the House of Representatives for the first time since the 115th Congress (2017-2019), but with a narrow majority.

Source: Bloomberg Government

House Leadership

House Republicans have retaken the majority in the chamber for the 118th Congress. In October 2023, Rep. Mike Johnson was elected to the office of Speaker of the House after former Speaker Kevin McCarthy was ousted from the role by his own party. For House Democrats now moving into the minority, the former slate of leaders have vacated their positions to usher in a new generation, led by Minority Leader Hakeem Jeffries of New York.

Conference Vice Chair	Mike Johnson (R-LA-04)
Conference Secretary	Lisa McLain (R-MI-09)
National Republican Congressional Committee Chair	Richard Hudson (R-NC-09)

Democratic Leadership Position	Position Holder
Minority Leader	Hakeem Jeffries (D-NY-08)
Minority Whip	Katherine Clark (D-MA-05)
Democratic Caucus Chairman	Pete Aguilar (D-CA-33)
Assistant Leader	James Clyburn (D-SC-06)
Caucus Vice Chair	Ted Lieu (D-CA-36)
Democratic Policy and Communications Committee Chair	Joe Neguse (D-CO-02)
Democratic Policy and Communications Committee Co-Chairs	Veronica Escobar (D-TX-16), Lauren Underwood (D-IL-14), Dean Phillips (D-MN-03)
Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee Chair	Suzan DelBene (D-WA-01)

House Committee Leadership

After winning back the majority in the 2022 election, Republicans will now control the business of House committees. Key House committees with health jurisdiction are the Energy and Commerce Committee (Medicare, Medicaid, FDA, NIH, public health, Affordable Care Act) and the Ways and Means Committee (Medicare and the Affordable Care Act).

*Joint committees are made up of bicameral members. The chairmanship and vice-chairmanship of the committee alternate between the Senate and House each Congress.

New Members of the 118th Congress

UNITED STATES SENATE

Sen. Katie Britt (R-AL)

Katie Britt began her career after graduating with a degree in political science from The University of Alabama, where she was student body president. After graduation, she worked in Washington, D.C., as U.S. Senator Richard Shelby's staff. Katie went on to serve as special assistant to then-University of Alabama President Robert Witt. After earning her law degree from The University of Alabama School of Law, she practiced law at the Alabama-based firm Butler Snow LLP. In 2015, Katie took a leave of absence from the firm to serve as Senator Shelby's deputy campaign manager and communications director. After his successful bid for re-election, she rejoined Shelby's team as chief of staff in 2016. Katie resides in Montgomery with her husband, Wesley, and their two children, Bennett and Ridgeway.

Sen. Ted Budd (R-NC)

Ted Budd previously served in the U.S. House of Representatives for 3 terms representing North Carolina's 13th Congressional District. He had previously never held elective office. In the House, Budd served on the Financial Services Committee, where he used his real world experience to roll back the restrictive regulations that strangle job creation in our country. Working at a young age on his family's cattle and chicken farm and for their janitorial and landscaping business, Ted learned the importance of work ethic and common-sense decision making. Ted and his wife Amy Kate have three children and live in Davie County, NC. He holds an MBA from Wake Forest University and a Masters of Theology and Educational Leadership from Dallas Theological Seminary. Source: Bloomberg Government

Sen. Laphonza Butler (D-CA)

Laphonza Butler was appointed to fill the vacancy left following the death of the late Sen. Dianne Feinstein. Previously, Butler served as the President of Emily's list, a pro-choice special interest group who works to elect pro-choice women to office. Butler began her career as a union organizer, for nurses and in-home caregivers, among other professions. In 2018, California Governor Jerry Brown appointed Butler to the state's board of regents for a 12 year term. She joined a private-sector political campaign firm – SCRB Strategies – in 2018, working with Kamala's Harris' 2020 presidential campaign and various corporate clients. In 2020, she joined Airbnb as Director of Public Policy. Source: Wikipedia

Sen. John Fetterman (D-PA)

20 years ago, John Fetterman came to Braddock, PA to start a GED program. He became mayor, and for 13 years worked to build the once-booming steel town back from collapse. As Lieutenant Governor, John transformed the position into a bully pulpit for criminal justice reform. He has led the fight to free the wrongfully convicted and give second chances to deserving longtime inmates, and championed the cause of legalizing marijuana on a historic tour of all 67 counties. A Pennsylvania native, John was born to teenage parents just starting out on their own. At the time, his father worked nights to put himself through college. John grew up in York, PA, and followed in his father's footsteps to Albright College, where he played offensive tackle for the Lions. Later, he joined AmeriCorps and served in Pittsburgh's historic

Hill District, where he helped set up the first computer labs in the neighborhood and taught GED classes to young mothers and fathers. He went on to earn a Masters in Public Policy from Harvard University's Kennedy School of Government. John and Gisele live with their three children in a restored car dealership in Braddock with the family dog, Levi. Source: Bloomberg Government

Sen. Markwayne Mullin (R-OK)

Markwayne Mullin previously served in the U.S. House of Representatives, where he was first elected to serve the people of Oklahoma's Second Congressional District in November 2012. Markwayne and his wife Christie founded multiple successful companies including Mullin Plumbing, Mullin Environmental, Mullin Services, Mullin Properties, and Rowan's Steakhouse to name a few. Mullin is an enrolled member of the Cherokee Nation. As one of only five Native Americans currently serving in Congress, Mullin brings a firsthand knowledge of Native American issues to Washington, D.C. In 2010, Mullin completed his education and received his degree in Applied Science in Construction Technology from Oklahoma State University Institute of Technology. Additionally, he received an honorary doctorate degree from Bacone College in 2018. Mullin previously served on the House Energy and Commerce Committee, including the Subcommittee on Communications and Technology, Subcommittee on Health, and on Environment and Climate Change. Mullin also serves on the House Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence, including the Subcommittee on Defense Intelligence and Warfighter Support and the Subcommittee on Strategic Technologies and Advanced Research. Sen. Pete Ricketts (R-NE)

Pete Ricketts served as the 40th Governor of Nebraska from 2015-2023. He previously ran for U.S. Senate in 2006 against incumbent Senator Ben Nelson (D-NE). Ricketts was selected by Nebraska Governor Jim Pillen (R) to fill the vacancy left by former Ben Sasse (R-NE) who resigned to become the President of the University of Florida. Ricketts previously worked in the financial services industry for the company founded by his father, TD Ameritrade, where he rose to the rank of Chief Operating Officer. In 2007, he founded the Platte Institute for Economic Research, a free market think tank. Ricketts and his family are the majority owners of the Chicago Cubs baseball team.

Sen. Eric Schmitt (R-MO)

Eric Schmitt previously served as Missouri's 43rd Attorney General and chief legal and law enforcement official. A lifelong, sixth-generation Missourian, Eric is driven by his constitutional conservative beliefs, which he applies every day as the lawyer for all six million Missourians. Eric has been committed to tackling the opioid crisis and launched the Real Opioid Pain initiative to hear from Missouri citizens who have been impacted by this crisis and is battling Big Pharma in court. To address the backlog of untested sexual assault kits, Eric launched the SAFE Kit initiative to bring justice for the brave individuals who came forward to tell their stories. Previously, Missourians elected Eric as their 46th State Treasurer. Before serving as Treasurer, he was elected twice to represent the state's 15th Senate District as a Missouri Senator. Eric and his wife Jaime have three children: Stephen, Sophia and Olivia. Their son, Stephen was born with a rare genetic condition causing tumors on his organs. He also has epilepsy, is on the autism spectrum, and is non-verbal. Eric attended DeSmet Jesuit High School and went on to graduate cum laude from Truman State University. After graduation, he attended law school at Saint Louis University where he received his J.D. and served as an editor of the Law Review. He served for over 16 years in private legal practice where he received numerous awards for his commitment to justice and the rule of law. Source: Bloomberg Government

Sen. JD Vance (R-OH)

JD Vance was born and raised in Middletown, Ohio. JD's father left home when he was a young boy. His mother struggled with drug addiction his entire life. His grandmother, called Mamaw, was his saving grace. Her tough love and discipline kept him on the straight and narrow. She taught him the importance of being grounded in faith and family and the prospect that a better life lay ahead. JD went on to serve our nation in the Iraq War as a proud Marine, graduated from The Ohio State University, received his law degree from Yale Law School, and became a successful investor in Silicon Valley. He wrote a bestselling book, Hillbilly Elegy, which was turned into a movie on Netflix. After the success of his book, JD became a well-known commentator on networks who fiercely defended working-class Americans. He had seen too many lives devastated by job loss, addiction and economic turmoil. JD moved back to Ohio in 2017 to start a Cincinnati-based business that focused on growing companies that create well-paying jobs. JD's business experience taught him firsthand that so many American companies struggle with unfair competition from China and from their own government, which often rewards multinational technology firms over Ohio small businesses. Sen. Peter Welch (D-VT)

Peter Welch has been a champion for working Vermonters throughout his career. Since his election to Congress in 2006, he has been widely recognized as a thoughtful and effective legislator who chooses governing over gridlock. Peter was born in Springfield, Massachusetts in 1947. He graduated from the College of the Holy Cross in 1969. After working for a year in Chicago fighting housing discrimination as one of the first Robert F. Kennedy Fellows, he enrolled in law school at the University of California, Berkeley and graduated in 1973. After law school, he settled in White River Junction, Vermont where he worked as a public defender before founding a small law practice. He was first elected to represent Windsor County in the Vermont Senate in 1980. In 1985, he was unanimously elected by his colleagues to lead the chamber, becoming the first Democrat in Vermont history to hold the position of President Pro Tempore. In Congress, Peter is a leading advocate for energy efficiency, cutting the price of prescription drugs, investing in infrastructure, and expanding broadband and telemedicine in rural America. Welch was a Chief Deputy Whip of the House Democratic Caucus and a member of the Democratic Steering and Policy Committee. He served on the House Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence, the House Committee on Energy and Commerce, and the House Committee on Oversight and Reform. He is married to Margaret Cheney, commissioner of the Vermont Public Utility Commission. They share a home in Norwich, Vermont. Source: Bloomberg Government

Rep. Nikki Budzinski (D-IL-13)

Born in Peoria, Nikki Budzinski's parents taught her the importance of family, community, and service to others. Nikki attended the University of Illinois Champaign and was inspired to devote her life to public service after interning for former Congressman Dick Gephardt, former Senator Paul Simon, and Planned Parenthood. As Governor JB Pritzker's senior advisor on labor issues, Nikki successfully led the charge to raise the minimum wage to $15 an hour. Also in the Governor's office, Nikki served as the Chair of Broadband Advisory Council that expanded high-speed "broadband" internet across Illinois. Later, Nikki helped President Biden set up his new administration and deliver much needed relief for working families facing unprecedented challenges from the pandemic. As Chief of Staff for Biden's Office of Management and Budget, she served in the office that helped implement the American Rescue Plan to help economy recover from pandemic. Nikki also helped get the Made in America Office off the ground, which ensures American companies and manufacturers get first priority in any taxpayer-funded contract.

Rep. Eric Burlison (R-MO-07)

Eric Burlison was most recently a Republican State Senator who represented the 20th Senatorial District in Missouri. Before his election to the Senate, he was a State Representative in the House, where he was named the Missouri Republican Assembly's Legislator of the Year in 2011. Eric has received 100 percent conservative rankings from leading national conservative groups like the American Conservative Union and Club for Growth. In his private life, he earns a living as a tax consultant and investment adviser as well as software consultant for Cerner. In his free time, Sen. Burlison enjoys hunting and fishing in the Ozarks. He and his wife, Angie, are active members of the Destiny Church in Republic, MO. They live in Battlefield with their two daughters, Reese and Aubrey. Source: Bloomberg Government

Rep. Yadira Caraveo, MD (D-CO-08)

For Yadira Caraveo, becoming a pediatrician, an accomplished legislator, and a successful advocate for children all started with a dream: her parents' dream. Yadira's parents came to Colorado from a small town in Mexico, looking for a better life. Caraveo attended public schools in Adams County, received a degree from Regis University, and continued on to medical school at the University of Colorado. Yadira chose to be a pediatrician in Adams County, but with 65% of her patients' families on Medicaid, she quickly understood that truly helping children required a lot more than what she was able to do as a doctor. Yadira became a state legislator and quickly gained a reputation for taking on tough fights and working with anyone to get things done. Yadira worked to pass historic legislation to force drug companies to lower the cost of prescriptions, drastically limit the toxic pollution that is endangering our kids' health and our planet, expand funding for preschool, ensure all Coloradans have access to paid family and sick leave, and protect renters from eviction during the pandemic. Because Yadira understands how the health care system works from the inside, she'll bring a unique perspective to health care reform, and the fight to lower drug and insurance costs and expand access to quality care. Yadira still lives in Adams County, not far from her parents, and her life is still filled with large family gatherings of relatives near and far, lots of food cooked with love and togetherness, support, and a little teasing from her brothers, and endless conversations with her teasing from her brothers, and endless conversations with her sister.

Rep. Greg Casar (D-TX-35)

Greg most recently served as an Austin City Council Member and movement organizer. As a Council Member, Greg authored the paid-sick-days laws that passed in Austin, San Antonio, and Dallas, implementing what the Austin-American Statesman called the "most progressive labor policy for the entire state and possibly the American South." When the State Legislature threatened to close the Planned Parenthood in East Austin, Greg worked with the city-supported clinic to keep it open. He also cleared the decades-long backlog of sexual assault evidence kits and expanded shelter for survivors of family violence. Casar has fought for fairness by closing inexcusable tax loopholes for the wealthiest, and he has made sure that everyday Texans have a voice in government. Casar lives with his fiancé Asha Dane'el and their dog Coco. Source: Bloomberg Government

Rep. Lori Chavez-DeRemer (R-OR-05)

Honest, accomplished, and committed, Lori Chavez-DeRemer was Mayor of Happy Valley from 2010-2018 where she led Oregon's fastest-growing community. As Mayor, Lori presided over important changes in the city, making it more business-friendly, offer more affordable housing options for families, and a safe place to build a career and raise a family. Lori's public service career began in 2002, serving on the Happy Valley Parks Committee. Later she won a seat on the Happy Valley City Council and became City Council President. She was elected to Mayor in 2010, becoming Happy Valley's first female and Latina elected mayor. She was re-elected in 2014. She's married to her high school sweetheart, Dr. Shawn DeRemer, and supported the couple as he finished medical school. Later she helped Shawn found Anesthesia Associates Northwest and they now run several medical clinics throughout the Pacific Northwest. Lori and Shawn are now parents of twin daughters, who are making their own footprints in the world. Annie works in the family health care business on the management side while Emilie is a public defender in Michigan.

Rep. Juan Ciscomani (R-AZ-06)

Juan grew up in Arizona's new 6th congressional district and has dedicated his career to fighting on behalf of our community and giving us a voice. As a first generation American, Juan's love of country and patriotism were born out of his upbringing in a working-class family. While attending public schools in Tucson, Juan held several jobs and earned scholarships to pay for school. He was the first from his family to achieve a higher education, graduating from Pima Community College and the University of Arizona. During his time at the Tucson Hispanic Chamber of Commerce, he fought for lower taxes and the elimination of unnecessary regulations on behalf of small business owners. Juan and Laura value faith, life, and family as the proud parents of six active kids: Zoe, Juan IV, Kenneth, Lily, Lucas and Gloria.

Rep. Anna Luna (R-FL-13)

Anna Paulina Luna is a strong independent leader, earning her stripes by serving her country, not by serving herself. Raised by a single mother in Southern California's low-income neighborhoods, Anna learned that she must work hard and be independent to succeed. Anna's way out was joining the military. While serving in the United States Air Force, Anna met her husband, Andy.

After his injury, Anna and Andy became involved with several veteran-focused and veteran-led non-profit organizations, including one whose mission is to end child trafficking through rescue and recovery operations. Just as Anna was to begin medical school, Charlie Kirk reached out and asked her to join Turning Point U.S.A as the National Director of Hispanic Engagement. Faced with a tough choice, Anna consulted with one of her mentors, a neurosurgeon, who counseled her that she would impact far more people's lives for the better by shaping legislation than she could in an entire career as a physician. Morgan Luttrell built a life centered around service. A 5th generation Texan raised on a horse ranch, at an early age Morgan learned the importance of hard work, discipline, and personal responsibility. After graduating from Willis High School, Morgan earned his bachelor's in psychology from Sam Houston State University—but he found his calling when he enlisted in the U.S. Navy to become a Navy SEAL. From Basic Underwater Demolition SEAL training (BUD/S) to Officer Candidate School, Morgan excelled as top grad—no matter the challenge. He served multiple combat deployments and led his troops as a Naval Special Warfare Officer. In 2009, by the grace of God, Morgan survived a deadly helicopter crash that left him with a broken back and a traumatic brain injury (TBI). Determined to get back in the fight with his teammates, Morgan rehabbed, recovered, and returned to the frontline. Following an honorable 14-year military career, Morgan retired from the Navy in 2014 and applied his personal success and experience to help fellow veterans recover from PTSD and traumatic brain injuries sustained in battle. After achieving an advanced degree in Applied Cognition and Neuroscience at the University of Texas at Dallas, Morgan created an innovative health and wellness platform helping veterans heal from their physical and psychological injuries. Secretary of Energy Rick Perry appointed Morgan to serve as a Special Advisor at the DOE—leading the creation of the Artificial Intelligence and Technologies Office to ensure America continued to outpace Russia and China in the development of machine-learning technology. Today, after earning his executive certificate in professional leadership development from the Harvard Business School, Morgan serves as an adjunct professor at Sam Houston State University.
